CHORDS.

A Chord is a union of two or more sounds, to be played simultaneously.

When a single chord occurs, it is to be played by the first finger alone, which is done by sliding the finger rapidly over the strings, beginning with the lowest note.

When two or more chords composed of the same letters occur, the first is made with the first finger, and the second is made by sliding the back of the nail of the thumb rapidly over the strings, commencing with the upper note of the chord.

* The notes to be played by the thumb of the right hand, have a double stem.
